

5 Simple Steps to Building Your New Habit

Men's natures are alike; it is their habits that carry them far apart. - Confucius

The secret is to replace your old habits with new habits. You can use techniques that huge tech businesses use to build your own habits. We’ve practiced habit forming and read all the books on habit forming, so you don’t have to!

Step 1. Define your old habit (that you want to change).
Write it down in as much detail as possible, and the emotions you feel.

Step 2. Identify the trigger for your old Habit.
This is important, because you will use this trigger to form a new habit. Apps use triggers, like message prompts, vibration, etc. Which creates a behaviour. This is generally a craving of sorts. Ie. Feeling Bored, Overwhelmed, Confused, etc.

Step 3. Define the new habit you want. In as much detail as you can.
Make it specific and realistic. Something you can actually do easily. If it’s too hard, you won’t do it.

Step 4. Build your habit building mantra.
“When You feel [the Trigger] (step 2), instead of [old habit] (step 1), I will [new habit](step 3).”

Step 5. Track The Number of Times That You Action Your New Habit.
You will need to do the new habit 50 times to solidify it.

Tick these boxes every time you do your new habit.

By the time you have ticked all these boxes, you will have formed your new habit.
